Introduction to Recertification

Recertification is an ongoing process designed to promote and demonstrate continued competency among NCSF certified professionals. The recertification process ensures NCSF board certified professionals maintain compliance with current practice standards and adhere to the ethical code of conduct. It demonstrates your commitment to competency and communicates professionalism to your clients, peers, employers, and the community you serve.

Part of the responsibility of being a certified professional is participating in continuing education, documenting the activities and submitting the necessary records to substantiate satisfactory compliance with the recertification program. The benefits of recertification include enhanced marketability, improved service offerings, demonstrating dedication to your profession and showing your commitment to providing safe and effective outcomes to stakeholders.

NCSF credentials are valid for two (2) years beginning on the day you pass the certification exam and ending on the last day of that same month two (2) years later. The NCSF Board for Certification requires the completion of ten (10) Continuing Education Units (CEUs) during that two-year period. This requirement reflects participation in no less than 20 hours of continued learning/professional development in that timeframe. Individuals that do not satisfy their recertification requirements will need to retake the certification exam and will be subject to the most current eligibility, test and fee requirements. As part of the 10 CEUs needed for credential renewal, two (2) must be earned from proof of current CPR certification, and one (1) must be earned in the category of Ethics and Professional Practice. Continued education comes in many forms and CEU values are assigned by the content, depth and breadth of the learning experience. All CEU's must have a documentable student learning outcome. Additionally, the content of the education must be in line with the professional role, fall within the scope of practice and be consistent with the practice domains of the profession.

Rationale for Recertification Interval

The NCSF Board determines the CEU values assigned to education and professional development as well as the interval for recertification. The complete rationale for the recertification requirements can be found on the organizations website, but is summarized below.

Exercise professions are dynamic and evolving with new research findings and technologies entering the field on a regular basis. Based on alignment with best practices of similar professions and research on the maintenance of professional competency, the Board determined it reasonable to expect certified professionals to participate in a minimum of 20 hours of continuing education over the two-year period. The interval assigned to the CEU requirement is long enough to allow the certified professionals to earn the appropriate credits, but short enough to promote regular engagement in education and training. Part of the determination is based on the data that standard setting organizations whom employ similar recertification periods find it promotes more learning-active professionals. Likewise, it harmonizes professional practice with a certain amount of time spent in professional development each year.

The information that follows will outline the required steps for renewing your credential(s) and will define the policies and procedures regarding the proper reporting and awarding of CEUs for recertification. The Recertification Application, located in the back of this handbook and available on the NCSF website, will need to be completed and submitted to the NCSF along with the required recertification fee and all necessary supporting CEU documentation.

Recertification Options:

Option 1 – Recertification by Exam

Any individual who possesses an NCSF credential can renew their certification status by simply retaking and passing the respective exam associated with their credential. Individuals will need to comply with the current eligibility requirements, register to sit for the exam and pay the standard test fee. Once registered, an eligibility number will be issued which will allow you to schedule an exam appointment with the testing service for the date, time, and location of your choosing. Upon successful completion of the exam, the credential will be reinstated for a two (2) year period, beginning the day the exam is passed and expiring on the final day of that month two years later.

Option 2 – Recertification by CEUs

Single NCSF Credential Renewal (ex. CPT or CSC)

Recertification Fee: $85

The recertification requirement for renewing a single NCSF credential is ten (10) CEUs every two (2) year reporting cycle. All CEUs applied toward recertification MUST be earned during the most recent two-year period of credential status in good standing and fall within the scope of the profession. Two (2) of the CEUs are required to be earned from proof of current CPR, and one (1) of the CEUs must be earned in Ethics and Professional Practice. The remaining seven (7) CEUs can be earned from coursework completed in the various defined categories associated with profession. Once all ten (10) CEUs have been earned, submit the Recertification Application, the required recertification fee, and all necessary supporting documents.

Multiple NCSF Credential Renewal (ex. CPT and CSC)

Recertification Fee: $100

The recertification requirement for renewing multiple NCSF credentials is ten (10) CEUs every two year reporting cycle. All CEUs applied toward recertification MUST be earned during the most recent two-year period of credential status in good standing and fall within the scope of the profession. All other requirements are the same as those of a single credential renewal.

The Steps to Recertify

1 Understanding CEUs

Continuing Education is defined as engagement in ongoing learning that results in the acquisition of new knowledge, skills, or abilities related to professional practice. Continuing Education Units (CEUs) are measured by specific student learning outcomes and education or professional development contact time. For most home study and semina based coursework, 1 CEU equals two hours of educational learning (0.5 CEUs per educational hour). College credits are accepted as 1 CEU value per successfully earned college credit.

2 Accepted CEU Categories (Educational Formats)

Continuing Education Units (CEUs) must meet the criteria set by the NCSF Board for Certification to be accepted as qualifying units. A CEU can qualify toward recertification under a number of different categories. Once the maximum CEU value for a particular category has been met during a two-year reporting cycle, no additional CEUs can be earned from that particular category in that cycle. It is the responsibility of the NCSF professional to submit 10 qualified CEUs that are in compliance with the recertification requirements. CEUs not in compliance with the defined qualifying criteria will not be applied toward recertification.

Continuing Education Unit (CEU) Categories

Category	Maximum Value
REQUIRED
CPR*	2 CEUs
Ethics and Professional Practice*	3 CEUs (1 CEU required)
*Denotes a mandatory requirement for recertification
NCSF CEU Library (Quizzes & Courses)	7 CEUs
College & University Courses	7 CEUs
Professional Development	5 CEUs
Non Pre-Approved Coursework (Seminar/Home Study)	7 CEUs

Category Definitions

CPR (REQUIRED)

All NCSF professionals are required to submit proof of current CPR certification. A photocopy of the CPR card showing that CPR is current at the time of application for recertification is required from each NCSF professional. The CPR certification must have been earned during the current two (2) year period of certification. The NCSF does not denote a particular CPR provider; any valid CPR credential is acceptable. Individuals who do not complete this requirement will be denied recertification.

Ethics and Professional Practice (REQUIRED)

All NCSF professionals are required to earn a minimum of one (1) CEU from this category. Acceptable topics include Ethical Business Practices, Sexual Harassment Policies, Client/Trainer relationship, Understanding Scope of Practice, etc. CEUs can be earned from employer based training, college/university coursework, seminar based learning, or NCSF courses or quizzes. Individuals who do not complete this requirement will be denied recertification.

NCSF CEU Library (Quizzes & Courses)

This includes coursework that has a pre-defined CEU value by the NCSF Board for Certification. It includes structured, home study based courses, workshop seminars, and CEU quizzes (found in the NCSF quarterly newsletter and monthly E-news and archived on the NCSF website). NCSF professionals can earn up to 7 CEUs from coursework completed in this category. Examples include: attending the NCSF Personal Trainer Workshop Course (7 CEUs), completing the Championship Triathlon Training home study course (5 CEUs), or completing an NCSF CEU quiz (0.5 CEUs).

College & University Courses

Credit-bearing coursework offered by accredited colleges and universities will earn NCSF professionals CEUs if the subject matter qualifies. Examples of qualifying subject matters can be found in the Qualifying Subject Matter Chart and may include: Exercise Physiology, Nutrition, Sports Medicine, Assessment and Technique, or Exercise Prescription. A copy of a transcript must be submitted demonstrating that a passing grade was earned during the most recent two year period of certification. Professionals will receive one (1) CEU per college credit, up to a maximum of 7 CEUs.

Example: Anatomy and Physiology (3 credits) = 3 CEUs

Professional Development

NCSF professionals can earn CEUs by engaging in activities that result in acquisition of new knowledge or skills that don't fall within the other defined categories. Qualifying activities include new discipline specific course development including professional presentations, research participation, or industry committee work. In addition, professionals who engage in authoring or chapter contributions to discipline specific texts can earn CEUs for their work. CEUs will also be awarded for published articles in edited industry publications or peer-reviewed academic journals. NCSF Professionals will earn 1 CEU for every four (4) hours of documented work up to a maximum of 5 CEUs from this category.

Example: 12 hours of research = 3 CEUs

Non Pre-Approved Coursework (Seminar/Home Study)

Coursework and programs offered by organizations that have not applied to the NCSF for provider status can provide NCSF professionals with CEUs toward recertification. Seminar or home study courses must be taught/developed by properly credentialed instructors, have a quantifiable outcome or method of competency measurement, and be of appropriate subject matter. NCSF professionals will earn 0.5 CEUs per documented contact hour (defined by hour of course participation) up to a maximum of 7 CEUs from this category.

*Example: 8 hour seminar with 1 hour lunch break
(7 contact hours) = 3.5 CEUs*

4 How to Submit

Recertification Application Submission & Processing

NCSF Recertification Applications will be processed in the order in which they are received, generally within 3-5 business days. Exceptions to this timeline may occur in cases where the application requires a Committee or Board review for completion. The postmark date on the application envelope will be used to determine the status of the application as it pertains to any credential expiration dates.

1. The Recertification Application must be postmarked prior to your credential expiration date.
2. The appropriate recertification fee and all required CEU supporting documentation must accompany the application. (One payment can be made for multiple items, e.g. quizzes and recertification fee.)
3. Recertification Applications will only be accepted within the 6 month period prior to the certification expiration date.
4. Once processed, a package containing a new ID card, updated certificate, and information regarding future CEU opportunities will mail via standard first class mail.
5. All NCSF professionals will receive a recertification reminder notice ninety (90) days prior to credential expiration.
